The lift is equipped with a standard hand-held control, lift-mounted controls and a handrail-mounted "up/down" control. For greater convenience, an optional remote control system is available.

System Operation

The operator opens the vehicle's doors (manually, or automatically if equipped with optional door operators). The "unfold" switch on the hand-held control (or the optional remote control) is activated. The stacking platform unfolds automatically and stops at vehicle floor level. The operator then activates the "down" switch to bring the platform to ground level. The spring-loaded outboard roll stop deploys automatically. After boarding the platform, the operator activates the handrail-mounted "up" switch. The platform stops at vehicle floor level. After the operator enters the vehicle, the "fold" switch is activated. The stacking platform folds automatically to the stowed position.

Vista Series

The Vista Series lift provides a clear picture of what mobility can be. With its unique stacking platform, the lift stows at a lower height than traditional wheelchair lifts, giving you greater visibility out the side door windows. It's truly mobility with a view!

The Vista Series can be installed in a wide variety of new and existing full-size vans, and the platform is large enough to accommodate most wheelchairs and scooters. Additionally, the lift can be used in vehicles without raised doors or tops, which means a better fit in your garage.

The Vista Series is easy to use, too. Color-coded rocker switches – each clearly marked with its function – allow easy operation by even those with limited dexterity. An optional remote control system activates all lift functions as well as optional door operators. And, in the event of a power failure, a manual backup pump is within reach of the user and allows the platform to be raised and lowered manually.

Most important, the same precision and detailed engineering that went into the Vista Series' design was also put into the safety features. A bridging mechanism allows you to safely board the lift from sidewalks or inclines, and automatic roll stops assure the wheelchair stays in place during operation. Standard dual handrails provide even more security.

Over thirty years of experience and expertise go into every Braun product and the Vista Series is no exception. The Vista Series provides a clear window, and a clear choice.
